Investors Kick Invictus Off Flagship Fund

By Alexander Saeedy

A distressed-debt manager lost control of its flagship fund after top investors ousted it for business tactics they considered too aggressive, including conduct during a chapter 11 bankruptcy that resulted in court sanctions, people familiar with the matter said.

Austin, Texas-based Invictus Global Management has run a $100 million distresseddebt fund that invests in struggling or bankrupt companies. It has been active in major chapter 11 and litigation finance cases including the bankruptcies of Aeromexico, Latam Airlines and discount retailer Tuesday Morning.

The fund's two largest investors, Corbin Capital Partners and Gatewood Capital Partners, voted to remove Invictus in September as it faced litigation tied to its actions on Wall Street, people familiar with Corbin's and Gatewood's thinking said.

A Texas bankruptcy court imposed sanctions on Invictus in 2020 for spreading "false or misleading information" to creditors of Tuesday Morning, which it tried and failed to ac-

Last year, the investment bank Jefferies Financial Group sued Invictus, saving the fund manager had agreed to buy $5 million of bankruptcy claims but then backed out as their market value fell.

Invictus said its investment in Tuesday Morning resulted in a return of more than 35% for the fund and that it was able to reach a settlement with the company that resolved the sanctions "without any monetary or other penalties." It said the Jefferies suit has no merit because "there was never a trade, nor has Jefferies provided any evidence of one."

Corbin and Gatewood told about $16 million they say be-

Invictus was active in the 2020 bankruptcy of Latam Airlines.

The Wall Street Journal they pulled the plug on Invictus's managers because of the company's failing investment strategy and "operational conduct not befitting a fiduciary."

Corbin and Gatewood also have sued Invictus Global Management for retaining longs to the fund since the ouster. They filed a restraining order against Invictus this month, and a judge agreed to temporarily freeze one of Invictus's bank accounts until the dispute is resolved.

Invictus's former managers said they have been victims of fraud perpetuated by Corbin and Gatewood.

"When Invictus stood up to Gatewood for its failures, colluded with Corbin Capital Management to remove Invictus as fund manager despite its superlative returns," a spokesman for Invictus said.

A Gatewood representative said it "has successfully partnered with many emerging managers in launching their inaugural funds" and that Invictus's "utter disregard of its fiduciary obligations" compelled it to remove the manager.

A Corbin representative said it and Gatewood had exercised their contractual

Since it started operations in 2019, Invictus has bought and sold tens of millions of dollars in distressed-debt and bankruptcy claims, including in the large 2020 bankruptcies of Aeromexico and Latam Airlines. It was a significant lender to Tuesday Morning, which it tried to buy out of bankruptcy this year, losing to a liquidating bid from Hilco Global.

Corbin's and Gatewood's concerns about Invictus's management style grew as it faced a growing number of lawsuits, the people familiar with the funds' thinking said.

Treo Asset Management now manages the assets, according to Corbin and Gatewood. However, some of the capital in Invictus's fund also came from the managers themselves and other minority fund investors, some of the people familiar said. Invictus's managers are strategizing how to recoup their share and move on, these people said.

Before the ouster, Invictus and Corbin fought for months over millions of dollars in fees Invictus says it is owed by Corbin. In court papers, Corbin has criticized Invictus's performance since 2019.
